Welcome, and how to use this guide

Hi, I'm Coach Luke. In more than 20 years of training clients, the single change that helps the most women feel stronger, fuller and more in control of their eating is simple: get enough protein, spread across the day.

Most women I coach are not eating too much. They are under-eating protein at breakfast and lunch, then running on snacks by 3 p.m. This guide fixes that with lists, numbers and ready-made meals, so you never have to guess.

You do not need to track forever. Use the guide for four weeks, learn what 25 to 40 grams looks like on your plate, and it becomes second nature.

1. Find your number
   Use the protein target chart on page 4 to set your daily goal.
2. Pick your foods
   Scan the six food lists (pages 6 to 11). Tick the ones you enjoy.
3. Build easy meals
   Use the 30-gram cheat sheet, breakfasts and snacks to fill each meal.
4. Follow the 7-day plan
   Borrow the sample week, or use it as a template for your own.
5. Track for 28 days
   Print the trackers and tick off one small protein habit a day.

THE WHY

Why protein matters after 25

Protein is the building material for muscle, bone, skin, hair and the enzymes that keep you running. Here is what that means for your day-to-day life.

Stay strong as you age

Muscle mass slowly declines from your 30s onward unless you work to keep it. Enough protein plus strength training is the best-supported way to protect it.

Feel full longer

Studies suggest protein is the most filling of the three macronutrients. A protein-rich breakfast often means fewer cravings by mid-afternoon.

Support fat loss

When you eat in a calorie deficit, higher protein helps you keep more muscle, so more of the weight you lose comes from fat.

Recover from workouts

Spreading 25 to 40 grams across your meals gives your muscles a steady supply of what they need to repair and adapt.

Steadier energy

Pairing protein with carbs slows digestion, which many women notice as fewer energy crashes after meals.

Healthy bones

Protein works alongside calcium and vitamin D. Research links adequate protein with better bone health in women.

A quick safety note

This guide is general education, not medical advice. If you have kidney disease or reduced kidney function, diabetes, are pregnant or breastfeeding, or follow a diet prescribed by your doctor, check with your doctor or a registered dietitian before you raise your protein. Nutrition values are averages based on USDA data and vary by brand and cooking method, so check your labels.

YOUR NUMBER

Find your daily protein target

Find your weight in the left column. The Recommended Dietary Allowance (0.8 g per kg) is a minimum to prevent deficiency. Many experts suggest active women aim higher.

Your weight	In kg	Minimum 0.8 g/kg	Active 1.2 g/kg	Strength focus 1.6 g/kg	Per meal (4 times a day)
110 lb	50	40 g	60 g	80 g	15 to 20 g
120 lb	54	44 g	65 g	87 g	16 to 22 g
130 lb	59	47 g	71 g	94 g	18 to 24 g
140 lb	64	51 g	76 g	102 g	19 to 25 g
150 lb	68	54 g	82 g	109 g	20 to 27 g
160 lb	73	58 g	87 g	116 g	22 to 29 g
170 lb	77	62 g	93 g	123 g	23 to 31 g
180 lb	82	65 g	98 g	131 g	24 to 33 g
190 lb	86	69 g	103 g	138 g	26 to 34 g
200 lb	91	73 g	109 g	145 g	27 to 36 g
210 lb	95	76 g	114 g	152 g	29 to 38 g
220 lb	100	80 g	120 g	160 g	30 to 40 g
230 lb	104	83 g	125 g	167 g	31 to 42 g
240 lb	109	87 g	131 g	174 g	33 to 44 g
250 lb	113	91 g	136 g	181 g	34 to 45 g

Which column is me?

Light activity or just starting: aim for the Active column. Lifting weights 2+ days a week, over 40, or losing weight: aim between Active and Strength focus. Research on exercising adults supports 1.4 to 2.0 g/kg.

Carrying extra weight?

Use your goal weight, not your current weight, for a more realistic number. Then split it across 3 meals and 1 snack. Hitting your per-meal number matters more than a perfect daily total.

My daily target: _____ g My per-meal target: _____ g

READING THE LISTS

How the food lists work

Every food on the next six pages shows a typical serving, grams of protein and calories. The last column ranks how much protein you get for the calories, so you can choose wisely.

LEAN

10+ grams of protein per 100 calories

Your best bets for building meals. Chicken breast, fish, shrimp, egg whites, nonfat Greek yogurt, tofu.

SOLID

5 to 9.9 grams per 100 calories

Great everyday choices with a bit more fat or carbs. Eggs, beans, lentils, chickpeas, hummus, cheese, milk.

BOOSTER

Under 5 grams per 100 calories

Add-ons that bring fiber, healthy fats or carbs plus some protein. Nuts, nut butters, most seeds, whole grains.

Four things to know

- Cooked vs. raw. Meat and fish are listed as cooked weight. 4 oz cooked is about 5 oz raw, or roughly the size of your palm.
- Complete proteins. Animal foods and soy contain all nine essential amino acids. Mix beans, grains, nuts and seeds through the day and plant eaters get the same benefit.
- Labels win. Values are averages from USDA data. Brands differ, especially for protein powders, bars, seitan and yogurt, so trust the label in your hand.
- Lean is not the only goal. Eggs, nuts and seeds rank lower per calorie but bring vitamins, minerals and healthy fats. Variety is the point.

FOOD LIST 1 OF 6

Poultry & Meat

Lean animal proteins are the easiest way to land 25 to 35 grams in one meal.

Coach Luke tip

Build each meal around one food from this page, then add color, fiber and a little healthy fat. That is the whole system.

NO COUNTING NEEDED

The plate method and hand portions

When you cannot weigh or track, use your plate and your hand. Your hand is always with you and it scales to your body size.

Build every plate in 4 steps

1. Start with a palm-size protein from the Lean or Solid lists.
2. Fill half the plate with vegetables or salad.
3. Add a cupped hand of smart carbs: fruit, beans, potatoes, whole grains.
4. Finish with a thumb of healthy fat: olive oil, avocado, nuts.

Hand portions for protein

1 palm — about 20 to 30 g

Meat, poultry, fish, tofu, tempeh

Thickness and size of your palm, no fingers.

1 cupped hand — about 8 to 15 g

Greek yogurt, cottage cheese, beans, lentils

Roughly 1/2 cup.

2 eggs — about 12 g

Whole eggs

Add 1/2 cup egg whites for +13 g.

1 thumb — about 3 to 7 g

Nut butter, cheese

Counts as protein and fat.

Most women hit their per-meal target with 1 to 1.5 palms of protein at each meal. If you lift weights or are over 40, lean toward 1.5.

MEALS IN MINUTES

PLANT-POWERED

8 vegetarian 30-gram meals

Meatless meals can hit your target too. Soy foods, legumes, seeds and dairy do the heavy lifting.

Tofu scramble

8 oz extra-firm tofu + nutritional yeast + spinach + sprouted toast

Crumble tofu into a hot pan, season with turmeric, garlic and nutritional yeast, wilt in spinach.

33 g 315 cal

Plant shake

1 scoop plant protein + 1 cup soy milk + 1 tbsp powdered PB

Blend with ice and half a frozen banana if you like it thick.

30 g 230 cal

Tempeh grain bowl

3 oz tempeh + 1/2 cup quinoa + 1/2 cup edamame + veggies

Slice and pan-sear tempeh with soy sauce, pile over quinoa with edamame and roasted veggies.

32 g 430 cal

Seitan fajitas

3 oz seitan + 1/2 cup black beans + tortilla + salsa

Saute sliced seitan with peppers and onion, fajita spice, warm beans, wrap and top with salsa.

30 g 372 cal

Lentil chili

1 cup lentils + 1/2 cup kidney beans + 1/2 oz cheddar

Simmer lentils and beans with canned tomatoes, onion and chili spices for 20 minutes, top with cheese.

29 g 400 cal

Chia pudding (vegetarian)

1 oz chia + 1 cup soy milk + 3/4 cup Greek yogurt

Stir chia into soy milk, chill overnight, then layer with Greek yogurt and berries.

29 g 320 cal

Edamame pasta bowl

2 oz chickpea pasta + 1 cup edamame + marinara

Toss cooked pasta with warmed edamame and marinara. Finish with basil and black pepper.

31 g 450 cal

Hummus power plate

1/2 cup hummus + 1/2 cup edamame + 1 oz pumpkin seeds + veggies

Snack-board style: hummus, warm edamame, pepitas, crunchy veggies and pita if you like.

29 g 475 cal

Fully vegan? Swap Greek yogurt for soy yogurt and cheddar for nutritional yeast. Protein will drop slightly, so add 1/2 cup edamame.

START STRONG

10 high-protein breakfasts

Breakfast is where most women fall short. Each of these delivers 20 grams or more, and most take under 10 minutes.

Greek yogurt parfait

1 cup nonfat Greek yogurt, berries, 2 tbsp hemp hearts, 1/4 cup granola

Layer yogurt, berries and hemp, add granola last so it stays crunchy.

33 g 453 cal

Smoked salmon plate

2 oz smoked salmon, 1 egg, 1 slice sprouted toast, cucumber

Toast the bread, add salmon, a sliced boiled egg, cucumber and dill.

22 g 235 cal

Egg white veggie omelet

2 eggs + 1/2 cup egg whites, spinach, 1 oz feta, 1 slice toast

Whisk eggs and whites, cook over medium, fill with spinach and feta, fold.

35 g 375 cal

Berry protein smoothie

1 scoop whey, 1 cup ultra-filtered milk, 1 cup berries, spinach

Blend with frozen berries and a handful of ice. Done in 2 minutes.

39 g 278 cal

Overnight protein oats

1/2 cup oats, 1 cup ultra-filtered milk, 1/2 scoop whey, 1 tbsp chia

Shake everything in a jar the night before. Eat cold or warm for 60 seconds.

32 g 346 cal

Skyr & nut butter bowl

Skyr cup, 2 tbsp powdered PB, banana, 1 tbsp chia

Stir powdered PB into skyr, top with banana slices and chia.

25 g 311 cal

Cottage cheese toast

1/2 cup cottage cheese on 2 slices sprouted toast + tomato

Spread on toast, top with sliced tomato, salt, pepper and everything seasoning.

23 g 250 cal

Chicken sausage & eggs

1 chicken sausage, 2 eggs, sauteed peppers

Brown the sausage, then cook eggs in the same pan with the peppers.

26 g 300 cal

Breakfast burrito

2 eggs + 1/4 cup egg whites, 1/4 cup black beans, salsa, tortilla

Scramble eggs and whites, add warm beans and salsa, roll. Freezes well.

27 g 379 cal

Tofu breakfast tacos

6 oz tofu scramble, salsa, 1/4 avocado, 2 small tortillas

Season crumbled tofu with taco spice, fill tortillas, add avocado and salsa.

22 g 350 cal

Short on time? Prep overnight oats, chia pudding or egg bites the night before and grab them on the way out.

Build a desk-drawer and car kit

Keep shelf-stable protein where you get hungry: tuna pouches, jerky or meat sticks, roasted chickpeas, single-serve protein shakes and a shaker bottle with a scoop of powder. Hunger hits, and you already have a plan.

SAMPLE WEEK, PART 1 OF 2

7-day high-protein meal plan

Each day lands around 110 to 140 g of protein and about 1,500 to 1,600 calories. Need more energy? Add fruit, whole grains or healthy fats. Need less? Trim the carbs and fats, keep the protein.

Day 1 141 g 1,591 cal	BREAKFAST	Greek yogurt parfait with berries, hemp hearts and granola	33 g
	LUNCH	Chicken burrito bowl: black beans, brown rice, salsa, greens	48 g
	SNACK	Tuna pouch, cucumber and 1 oz almonds	24 g
	DINNER	Salmon, 1/2 cup quinoa and broccoli	36 g
Day 2 123 g 1,515 cal	BREAKFAST	Veggie egg scramble, sprouted toast and a banana	33 g
	LUNCH	Turkey roll-ups, string cheese, hummus, veggies, 1/2 avocado	34 g
	SNACK	Skyr cup, berries and 1 oz almonds	22 g
	DINNER	Pork tenderloin, sweet potato, roasted veg	34 g
Day 3 129 g 1,587 cal	BREAKFAST	Overnight protein oats with berries	33 g
	LUNCH	Big chicken salad with feta and sprouted toast	46 g
	SNACK	2 hard-boiled eggs, apple, 1 oz almonds	18 g
	DINNER	Shrimp stir-fry with 1/2 cup brown rice	32 g
Day 4 126 g 1,595 cal	BREAKFAST	Two-minute shake (whey, ultra-filtered milk, banana)	38 g
	LUNCH	Lentil soup, 1/2 oz cheddar, 2 slices sprouted toast	34 g
	SNACK	Cottage cheese, berries and an apple	14 g
	DINNER	Turkey taco lettuce cups, pinto beans, avocado	40 g

SAMPLE WEEK, PART 2 OF 2

7-day high-protein meal plan

Mix and match any day. Leftovers from dinner make an easy lunch the next day, and most breakfasts can be prepped the night before.

Day 5 110 g 1,591 cal	BREAKFAST	Cottage cheese toast, 1 egg and a banana	30 g
	LUNCH	Tuna salad wrap and an apple	29 g
	SNACK	Edamame snack pack and 1 oz almonds	15 g
	DINNER	Chickpea pasta bolognese with side salad	36 g
Day 6 114 g 1,595 cal	BREAKFAST	Smoked salmon plate with 2 eggs, toast and a banana	29 g
	LUNCH	Tempeh grain bowl with edamame	32 g
	SNACK	Greek yogurt cup and an apple	15 g
	DINNER	Steak salad with avocado and sweet potato	38 g
Day 7 118 g 1,549 cal	BREAKFAST	Breakfast burrito with 1/2 avocado	28 g
	LUNCH	Sardine toast, side salad and an apple	34 g
	SNACK	Ultra-filtered milk latte and 1 oz pistachios	19 g
	DINNER	Cod with lentils and roasted veg	37 g

Meal prep in about an hour

- Sunday: roast 2 lb chicken breast or pork tenderloin and a sheet pan of vegetables.
- Cook a pot of lentils or quinoa, and hard-boil 6 to 8 eggs.
- Portion yogurt or overnight oats into jars for 3 breakfasts.
- Wednesday: a quick second prep keeps food fresh for the back half of the week.

LABEL SMARTS

Reading labels and choosing protein powder

Two minutes in the aisle saves you from "high protein" foods that are mostly sugar or marketing.

Read any label in 4 checks

1. Serving size.
   Is it the amount you actually eat? Double it if not.
2. Protein grams.
   Look for 10 g or more for a snack, 20 g or more for a meal.
3. Protein per 100 calories.
   Divide protein by calories, times 100. 10+ is lean.
4. Added sugar.
   Aim for under 8 g in yogurts, bars and shakes.

Good to know: the % Daily Value for protein on US labels is based on 50 g a day, which is lower than most active women need.

Protein powder checklist

- ✓ Third-party tested (look for NSF Certified for Sport or Informed Choice seals).
- ✓ 20 to 30 g of protein per scoop.
- ✓ Short ingredient list you recognize.
- ✓ Under 5 g of added sugar per scoop.
- ✓ Whey or casein if dairy works for you. Pea, soy or blends if not.
- ✓ No "proprietary blends" hiding the amounts.
- ✓ A flavor you actually like. You will only use it if you enjoy it.

5 easy protein swaps

Sour cream	→ Plain Greek yogurt	+9 g
Regular pasta	→ Chickpea or lentil pasta	+4 to 6 g
Regular milk	→ Ultra-filtered milk	+5 g
Granola bar	→ Greek yogurt cup or jerky	+6 to 12 g
Plain toast	→ Toast + cottage cheese	+13 g

Five rules that work

1. Protein first: build every plate around it.
2. Plan breakfast the night before.
3. Keep two grab-and-go proteins on hand.
4. Pair protein with strength training 2 to 3 days a week.
5. Progress over perfection. Most days is enough.
